

TRUMAN PROCLAIMS TODAY V-J DAY

CONGRESS IN NO HURRY TO CANCEL DRAFT

ARMY VOLUNTEERS TO GET SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS

BY CLAIR JOHNSON
Washington, Sept. 1 (AP)—A poll of the House Military Committee showed today that a campaign for immediate end of the draft has lost its steam.

Fourteen committee members told a reporter they believed Selective Service will be allowed to continue, at least for a few months.

Likewise, they said it probably will be necessary to continue inducting 18 and 19 year olds.

Replacements Needed
Most of the committeemen said they would like to see the draft abolished or modified, but expressed belief it must be kept for a while for two reasons:

1. To guarantee the replacement of veteran fighting men.

2. To insure an adequate number of occupation troops.

They added that a demand probably still will be raised on the House and Senate floors for a change in policy.

Their plan, however, is to keep bottled up in committee any anti-draft legislation until it is seen whether volunteer enlistments increase beyond expectations or the need for occupation troops drops.

In this connection, a special subcommittee headed by Chairman May (D-Ky) speeded work today on proposed legislation designed to encourage volunteering. It would provide added financial inducements, with increased pay for overseas service one of the chief provisions.

Act Expires May 15
Most of the legislators polled asserted that although the draft will be kept temporarily they will not go along with President Truman's recommendation for immediate action to continue it with two years terms of service for men 18 to 25.

They said they still hope that before the draft act expires May 15 the military situation will have improved enough to allow a halt to forced inductions.

Because interruption of young careers is a chief complaint against postwar inductions, members of the House Military Committee, in draft hearings this week, gave close scrutiny to Army-sponsored education.

The program, they were told by Army officials, already is well underway in occupied Germany and will be set up also in Japan.

Under it, a soldier—private or officer—may arrange to go to school in his spare time, taking regular high school or college course taught by American professors.

Meanwhile it was learned that legislation designed to encourage enlistments in the armed forces also will wipe out temporarily any limitation on the size of the regular army. Its present authorized strength is 280,000.

Furlough For 90 Days
Chairman May (D-Ky) said after an executive meeting of a military affairs subcommittee, that "we will have to see later what the size of the army ought to be."

The subcommittee, working on legislation intended to aid recruitment of volunteers for occupation duties in Germany and Japan, tentatively proposed to:

1. Enable men re-enlisting in the Army or Navy to obtain their mustering out pay now instead of waiting until after expirations of

SCENE OF HISTORIC JAP SURRENDER—
The United States Navy's mighty 45,000-ton battleship, the USS Missouri, ended her World War II career in a blaze of glory Saturday in Tokyo Bay, when she served as the scene of the historic unconditional surrender of Japan to the United Nations. Proudly bearing the name of the home state of President Harry S. Truman, the fighting

USS Missouri was named by General of the Army, Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander, as the locale of the formal ending of the war in the Pacific. The USS Missouri was launched Jan. 29, 1944. Construction was ordered June 12, 1940. Her keel was laid on Jan. 6, 1941, at the New York Navy Yard. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph.)

Hitler's Henchmen Busy With Bibles

BY RICHARD R. KASISCHKE
Nuernberg, Sept. 1 (AP)—About half of the Nazi leaders held here for war crimes trials are professing an interest in religion, the army said today in disclosing new details of their prison life.

Hitler's henchmen have Bibles in their cells, many of them say long prayers, and they keep United States army chaplains busy holding church services.

"When we first asked the prisoners what their religious requirements were, half immediately turned down our offer flatly, saying they had no church," Andrus said.

"But recently, at least half took it up, and now United States army chaplains visit them and hold mass and Protestant services in the cell blocks. All are permitted Bibles."

Andrus said the most avid Bible reader and church-goer was Dr. Hans Frank, now awaiting trial for numerous atrocities committed during his rule as overlord of Poland.

Until lately, Frank had been a problem case ever since the day he arrived in captivity, an ungainly and sweaty man wearing only a pair of silk pants. He tried to commit suicide, but botched the job, underwent mental treatment, and took up religion.

Now he is "apparently very penitent" and wants to help other prisoners, the colonel said.

Not all of them are repentant. For example, said Andrus, Julius Streicher, onetime head Jew-baiter for Hitler, remains defiant.

"You probably will hang me for what I have done to the Jews, but some day America and England will realize I was right," Andrus quoted Streicher.

Adm. Nicholas Horthy, former Hungarian regent, was described by Andrus as "the only sassy devil in the lot." Horthy is not now in Andrus' custody, but when he was held in Luxembourg where the Nazi leaders previously were confined, he objected when guards took anti-suicide precautions—such as removing prisoners' belts and shoelaces.

Andrus said that the once pompous Hermann Goering, who was "told off" early in his confinement, had become docile and agreeable.

"For a long time we have never had a peep out of 'Fat Stuff,' and he is a model of what has generally been a courteous lot of prisoners," the colonel declared.

Manila, Sept. 2 (AP)—The highest ranking Japanese yet taken in the Philippines, five generals and two admirals, were in the hands of American forces tonight.

Six of the Japanese military leaders were brought in a few hours after Japanese Vice Admiral Furuse, who commanded the defenses of Manila, surrendered at Infanta on the east coast of Luzon.

The other prisoners, who refused to disclose what their commands were, identified themselves as Lts. Gens. Tadasu Kataoka and Shannei; Maj. Gens. Takeo Manjome, Isamu Hira and Masuo Yoshiki; and Rear Admiral Kaku Harada. They were taken to New Bilibid prison south of Manila.

The final overall surrender of Japanese military and naval survivors in the Philippines was scheduled for 9:30 a. m. Monday (8 p. m. Sunday EWT) at Baguio, summer capital of the islands.

Yanks who witnessed the arrival of American and Japanese prisoners in Manila saw the vivid contrast between the two groups. The Japanese officers appeared well fed and supplied. Several of the Japanese offered American newsmen cigarettes.

The first pajamas many Americans had seen in months were found in the packs carried by 30 Japanese soldiers who arrived from the interior of the island.

VENUE CHANGE DENIED Mc KAY

One Defendant Pleads Guilty In Liquor Graft Case

Lansing, Sept. 1 (AP)—Barring a successful last minute appeal to the state supreme court, Frank D. McKay and four co-defendants must stand trial Wednesday in Ingham county circuit court on charges of conspiring to corrupt the state liquor control commission.

In a series of developments Saturday, Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr accepted a plea of guilty from Charles Leiter, of Detroit, one of McKay's co-defendants, and denied three motions seeking a change of venue for McKay and a year's continuance for McKay and the remaining co-defendants.

Leiter, who like the other defendants was acquitted in a federal court trial on similar charges, appeared before Judge Carr this morning with his attorney, William H. Comb of Detroit and informed the court that he wished to change his plea. Both refused to comment.

Jury Prosecutor Kim Sigler's only answers to questions on Leiter's new role in the case was "no comment," and he declined to say whether he would call the dark 49-year-old ex-liquor sales representative to the witness stand during the trial.

Leiter's bond of $5,000 was continued, pending his sentence by the court.

General Motors' European Plants Make Autos Soon

BY ROBERT EUNSON
Paris, Sept. 1 (AP)—General Motors Corp. factories in Belgium, Denmark, France and even Germany will begin soon on a small scale the making of automobiles, William S. Knudsen told the Associated Press today.

"It will take fifty years to reconstruct Germany, and the European political scene is very complicated right now," Knudsen said, "but I am almost optimistic about the business future in Europe."

He admitted there probably would be a good many unemployed persons.

"There always will be 55 per cent who are working," Knudsen said, "and we will be able to take care of the other 45 per cent."

NIPPON GIVES UP HER IDEAS FOR CONQUEST

OCCUPATION OF JAP TERRITORY WILL INSURE PEACE

(By The Associated Press)
The Potsdam ultimatum, to whose terms the Japanese bowed at the surrender ceremonies in Tokyo Bay, calls for the elimination "for all time" of the authority and influence of those who led Japan into the war and stern justice for war criminals.

Others of the terms laid down by President Truman and Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Britain call for:

Occupation of Japanese territory until the Allies feel the peace of the world is assured;

Limitation of Japanese sovereignty to the main Japanese islands of Honshu, Hokkaido, Kyushu, Shikoku and a few minor islands, stripping Japan of all her conquests;

Complete disarmament of Japanese armed forces;

Removal by the Japanese of all obstacles to a revival of freedom of speech, religion and thought.

(By The Associated Press)
Article by article here is what Japan agreed to do under the terms of surrender:

1. Accept all provisions of the Potsdam declaration.

2. Surrender unconditionally all armed forces.

3. Cease hostilities forthwith and preserve and save from damage all ships, aircraft and military and civil property.

4. Command Imperial general headquarters to issue orders to all field commanders everywhere to surrender their forces unconditionally.

5. See that all civil, military and naval officials obey and enforce all orders of the supreme Allied commander.

6. Carry out in good faith under Allied direction the Potsdam declaration under which free institutions may be established leading to the restoration of sovereignty.

7. Liberate all Allied war prisoners and civilian internees and see that they arrive safely at debarkation points.

8. Acknowledge that the authority of the emperor and the Japanese government is subject to the will of the supreme commander.

Long Occupation Needed To Finish Up Task In Reich
Washington, Sept. 1 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy suggested tonight that the period of Allied occupation in Germany probably would be long.

He outlined his views in a broadcast discussion on "our military government policy in Germany" with Dean Acheson, under secretary of state, and Colonel Henry Parkman, chief of the planning branch of the army's civil affairs division.

McCloy spoke on the NBC program of the problem of re-educating Germany to the ideas of democracy.

"That would seem to imply a long occupation of Germany, if we are going to stay until a democratic Germany is functioning," the program conductor, Sterling Fisher, commented.

"There's not much doubt about that," replied McCloy.

He was asked how long it will take.

McCloy, explaining the economic and cultural dislocations in Germany in the wake of war and the Nazi regime, replied that "it is not an easy task nor one capable of quick accomplishment."

Peace Returns To World; Japs Sign Surrender

By Murlin Spencer and Spencer Davis
U. S. S. Missouri, Tokyo Bay, Sunday, Sept. 2. (AP)—Two nervous Japanese formally and unconditionally surrendered all remnants of their smashed empire to the Allies today, restoring peace to a war-battered world.

Surrender hour was cool and cloudy, but the sun broke through the overcast 20 minutes later as General MacArthur intoned "These proceedings are closed."

Colonel Wipes Eyes
Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu, who signed for the Japanese government, doffed his top hat and nervously fingered his fountain pen before he firmly signed the two copies of the surrender document—one for Japan, one for the Allies. Shigemitsu penned his name in English on one document.

Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, for the imperial staff, also nervous, signed hurriedly; quickly stepped aside. A Japanese colonel wiped his eyes. All of the Nipponese present were tense and drawn.

Uses Five Pens
Then MacArthur signed, deliberately, using five pens. The first two—silver-plated especially for the occasion—he handed in turn to Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and to British Gen. Arthur Ernest Percival, who were forced to surrender Corregidor and Singapore, respectively, in the war's darkest hours.

Wainwright and Percival smiled; saluted snappily. They had been rescued only a few days ago from Japanese prisoner of war camps.

"It is my earnest hope and indeed the hope of all mankind—that from this solemn occasion a better world shall emerge out of the blood and carnage of the past," MacArthur said.

The historic signing took place on a long table on the gallery deck.

Glad It's Over
Minutes later, from the White House, where Japanese warlords asserted they would dictate their own peace terms, President Truman broadcast:

"We shall not forget Pearl Harbor. The Japanese militarists will not forget the U. S. S. Missouri."

All Allied representatives were sober-faced, but obviously glad it's over. Soldiers, sailors and marines, some of whom had fought their way across the Pacific, hardly could hide a trace of exuberance on their serious faces.

MacArthur's hand shook slightly as he reached "Dou." In his first signature. His face twitched but his voice was strong although he appeared to be under great emotional strain.

General MacArthur acted as a brisk master of ceremonies. He made a brief introductory statement before the Japanese signed.

NEW WARLESS ERA FORESEEN BY PRESIDENT

SOLEMNITY AND JOY ARE MINGLED IN CELEBRATION

Washington, Sept. 1 (AP)—President Truman tonight proclaimed Sunday, Sept. 2, as V-J Day—for Japan a day of "retribution," for America and the world a day of the "victory of liberty over tyranny."

Mr. Truman spoke over a globe-girdling radio hookup that flooded the White House with Tokyo where aboard the great battleship Missouri just off the enemy capital, Japan abjectly signed the terms of her surrender.

Tokyo Menace Erased
And to the occasion the president attributed a four-fold significance:

1. For this country—a day for "renewed consecration to the principles which have made us the strongest nation on earth and which, in this war, we have striven so mightily to preserve."

2. For Japan—an end of "power to destroy and kill."

3. For the world—a bright new era of hope for "peace and international goodwill and cooperation."

4. For history—"the day of formal surrender by Japan."

"We shall not forget Pearl Harbor," he said.

"The Japanese militarists will not forget the U. S. S. Missouri. The evil done by the Japanese war lords can never be repaired or forgotten. But their power to destroy and kill us has been taken from them. Their armies and what is left of their navy are now impotent."

For this event of mingled solemnity and joy, Mr. Truman invited members of the cabinet to sit with him in the broadcast room on the first floor of the White House—the White House where Japan once haughtily boasted she would dictate surrender terms.

They listened to the ceremonies aboard the Missouri and, in the midst of them, the president spoke.

Then the all-nation broadcast switched back to Tokyo Bay for addresses by General Douglas MacArthur, supreme Allied commander, and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific Fleet commander, American signers of the surrender documents.

Day To Remember
There was little of gloating or elation in the president's address. Rather there was sober emphasis on what victory has cost and what it will mean.

Our first thoughts now, the president said, are thoughts of gratefulness and deep obligation to those killed or maimed in history's most terrible war, and of their loved ones. He went on:

"Only the knowledge that the victory, which these sacrifices have made possible, will be wisely used, can give them any comfort. It is our responsibility—ours, the living—to see to it that this victory shall be a monument worthy of the dead who died to win it."

Answering thousands of inquiries as to just what V-J Day means, the president repeated previous assertions that it has no legal meaning. Here is what he said on this point:

"As president of the United States, I am authorized to declare that this day shall be a national day of celebration."

The Peninsula 400 arrived in Escanaba three hours late early Saturday morning after a truck in into the streamliner train at Eden, Wisconsin, near Fond du Lac, Friday evening. One passenger of the truck was killed and a second critically injured.

The truck, which bounced along a side of the passing train, was badly damaged and windows in several of the coaches were broken. One of the Diesel engines was put out of commission in the collision.

When the train arrived at Escanaba at two a. m. Saturday, the Diesel engine was removed and a train proceeded to Ishpeming under the power of a steam locomotive. Yesterday morning the Diesel engine was again returned to service and powered the train of Escanaba on the run back to Chicago.

NEW WARLESS ERA FORESEEN BY PRESIDENT

ates. I proclaim Sunday, Sept. 1945, to be V-J Day—the day of formal surrender by Japan.

"It is not yet the day for the formal proclamation of the end of a war or of the cessation of hostilities. But it is a day which we Americans shall always remember as a day of retribution—as we remember that other day, the day of 'famy.'

Eulogy For Roosevelt

Mr. Truman thus adopted the words of his predecessor, the late president Roosevelt, in referring to December 7, 1941.

The president spoke from the broadcast room on the first floor of the White House. He had been listening to the radio description of the surrender ceremony when in on the hook up with the Missouri. The program continued when he finished his 1200-word speech.

"From this day we move forward," he said. "We move toward a new era of security at home. With the other United Nations we have toward a new and better world of peace and prosperity for ourselves and all the world in the years ahead."

The president after paying tribute to those who died in the war, and millions of other United States and Allied participants, including battlefield and homefront fighters and workers, voiced a prayer for his predecessor.

"We think of our departed gallant leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt, defender of democracy, architect of world peace and cooperation."

The president said the formal Japanese surrender means a victory of more than arms alone.

"This is a victory of liberty over tyranny," he declared.

He said to all Americans there comes first "a sense of gratitude to Almighty God who sustained us and our Allies in the dark days of grave danger, who made us to grow from weakness into the strongest fighting force in history, and who now has seen us overcome the forces of tyranny that sought to destroy his civilization."

"God grant that in our pride of the hour we may not forget the hard tasks that are still before us; that we may approach these with the same courage, zeal and patience with which we faced the trials and problems of the past four years."

Liberty Preserved

The president, in a further reference to V-J Day, recalled that the nation has already had a day

Peace Returns To World; Japs Sign Surrender

then called upon each nation's signer in turn to step forward. The United Kingdom's signature was followed by that of Soviet Russia.

Clouds Hang Low

The Russian staff officer signed quickly, scooting his chair into a more comfortable position even as he was signing.

MacArthur smiled approvingly as the Russian rose and saluted. Quickly in turn, Australian, Canadian, French, Dutch and New Zealand representatives signed in that order.

The Australian Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, happened to sign the Japanese copy first, with an expression that denoted it didn't make any difference.

The scene in Tokyo Bay was largely obscured by clouds which hung fairly low amid the surrounding hills.

The flags of the United States, Britain, Russia, and China fluttered from the verandah deck of the Missouri. More than 100 high ranking military and naval officers of the Allies were in the colorfully-uniformed group watching the ceremony.

MacArthur, in his opening remarks, declared:

"It is my earnest hope and indeed the hope of all mankind that from this solemn occasion a better world shall emerge out of the blood and carnage of the past."

Price Comes High

Finally, after New Zealand's signature, less than 20 minutes from the start of the ceremony, the sun broke through the clouds, and MacArthur formally and in a firm voice declared the proceedings closed.

The Japanese prepared to depart immediately, their bitter chore accomplished.

MacArthur informed the Japanese of rejoicing over this victory, and added:

"We have had our day of prayer and devotion. Now let us set aside V-J Day as one of renewed consecration to the principles which have made us the strongest nation on earth and which, in this war, we have striven so mightily to preserve."

"Those principles provide the faith, the hope and the opportunity which help men to improve themselves and their lot."

The president said liberty does not make all men perfect nor all society secure, but it has provided more solid progress, happiness and decency for more people than any other philosophy of government in history.

"We know," he said, "that under it we can meet the hard problems of peace which have come upon us. A free people with free Allies, who can develop an atomic bomb, can use the same skill and energy and determination to overcome all the difficulties ahead."

Declaring that victory always has its burdens and responsibilities as well as its rejoicing, he said:

"But we face the future and all its dangers with great confidence and great hope. America can build for itself a future of employment and security. Together with the United Nations, it can build a world of peace founded on justice and fair dealing and tolerance."

Woodlawn Woman Killed When Shed Collapses In Wind

Mrs. Lissa Serafiina Kivi was apparently instantly killed in an unusual accident at her farm home at Woodlawn at six o'clock Saturday evening. She was going to a neighbor for milk as a sudden rain squall hit and had stepped into an equipment shed for shelter when the force of the wind caused the building to collapse.

The shed had been used to store a threshing machine, and when the machine was recently removed the props had not been replaced.

Mrs. Kivi, who would have been 78 years old on September 9, probably suffered a skull fracture as her head was hit by one of the building timbers.

She was born on September 9, 1867 at Vaasa Laani, Finland and was the widow of Gust Kivi who died in 1928. She was a member of the Finnish Lutheran church.

Survivors are one son Leo, four grandchildren and a niece. Mrs. Cecil Cameron of New York.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home to be prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Amos Marin, Gwinn. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

State Police from the Gladstone post investigated the accident and Coroner Kevill Murphy and Dr. G. W. Moll were called from Escanaba.

Telephone Company Launching Postwar Expansion Program

Detroit, September 1—The Michigan Bell Telephone company today revealed that it has launched its $120,000,000 postwar construction and improvement program, largest in history of the company over a comparable five-year period.

George M. Welch, president of the company, said the program will include the erection of 49 new buildings and 13 major additions to present buildings, the expenditure of $50,000,000 for the purchase and installation of new central office equipment, long distance cable containing 50,000 miles of wire and cables for local calls containing two and one-half million miles of wire—enough to encircle the globe more than a hundred times.

Construction already is under way on $5,000,000 worth of projects and engineering preliminaries have been completed on about one-fourth the total program, Welch said.

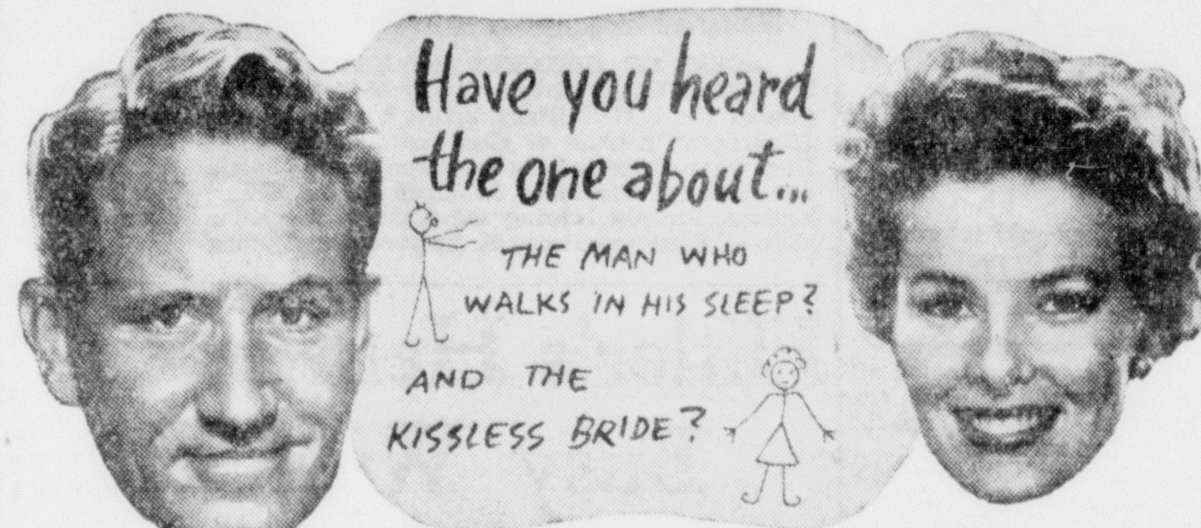

So imposing is the proposed program that it will increase the size of the company's system nearly 50 per cent. The program will reach out to virtually all of the Company's 252 exchanges. Interrupted by war, the company's rural expansion and improvement program will be resumed at a cost of more than $13,000,000.

The program looms important, too, on the employment side. Welch said it will provide telephone jobs not only for the company's 2,800 employees in the armed forces but also for 2,000 new telephone workers. In addition, thousands of jobs will be provided indirectly for employees of sub-contractors, builders, and suppliers.

Well Known Escanaba Was Resident Here For 59 Years

Leon Brunelle, 76, a well known Escanaban, died at 8:00 o'clock on Saturday afternoon following four years illness from the infirmities of old age.

He was a member of St. Ann church, of the Holy Name society and the Societe Canadien Francais.

Survivors include three sons, Joseph, Birmingham, Mich.; Leo J., Stephenson; Donald J. Escanaba; eight grandchildren and two sisters living in Canada.

A Mark of Honor

The gold button at the left is the Honorable Discharge Button. It shows an American eagle, with lofty wings spread through a circle of gold.

This button stands for honorable service to our Country. All men and women honorably discharged from the armed forces will wear this emblem of honor.

Until recently this insignia has been labeled the "Emblem Nobody Knows." But all of us should become thoroughly familiar with it because its wearers were ready and willing to give their all, if necessary, for the preservation of their country.

Give these returning lads and lassies the respect and honor they deserve. Furthermore, help them to get back into the swing of things again here at home.

One of these days there'll be millions of these buttons displayed. So learn to recognize this little emblem wherever and whenever you see it.

First Responsibility

THE Escanaba Daily Press naturally is keenly interested in the industrial development of Escanaba, of Delta county and of the entire area served by this newspaper. The consistent record of support by this newspaper to industrial development programs in the area over the years indubitably sustains that fact.

The first and foremost responsibility of the Daily Press, however, is to its readers, which explains why the Press reporter assigned to cover the Escanaba city council special meeting Friday night declined to commit himself in advance to withhold publication of the council's discussion of the city's program to attract new industries to Escanaba. Rather than accept a muzzle at the council's direction, the reporter left the meeting.

The City of Escanaba's industrial development program is of vital concern and interest to all of the people of the community. Any commitments that the council makes to a prospective new industry is made by the council upon behalf of the people of Escanaba. Financial obligations that the council assumes upon behalf of the city to attract new industry into the community must be met from funds that belong to all of the people of Escanaba.

Obviously, then, the Daily Press would be shirking its responsibility by agreeing to deny to the public information that the people of Escanaba have a right to know.

The broad idea of community cooperation to attract new industry to Escanaba is accepted by the public as a sound policy. This has been proved on several occasions in past years, the most recent of which was the successful campaign to establish a financial reserve for inducing industry to locate in this area.

Obviously, in the course of negotiations for new industries, there occasionally arises a need for discretion in the treatment of publicity and in such cases, when the public's interest is not jeopardized, the Daily Press has always acted in the best interests of the community.

The Press, however, cannot commit itself in advance to withholding information of public interest. To do so would be to cringe on its responsibility and to jeopardize its integrity.

Gone at Last

THE Michigan Office of Civilian Defense has been officially disbanded by Capt. Donald S. Leonard, head of a doughty army of home-front heroes whose activities for the past two years have been largely centered in Lansing.

In the dark days after Pearl Harbor there was need of civilian defense. In Michigan it was well, if somewhat spectacularly organized. Every city, village and hamlet in the state was organized to repel the invader, put out incendiary bombs, and bind up the wounds of the casualties. It was a quivering period of excitement, with a feeling that invasion was imminent and that bombs might hit the Soo Locks, Escanaba or docks, industrial Detroit and Flint, the state capital or other military objectives.

Less spectacular were the salvage operations—paper, tin and fats. And we shouldn't forget the first run on aluminum, scrap rubber and old iron that helped make the American countryside more attractive.

The war picture changed from one of defense to offense within a year—but the Office of Civilian Defense in Michigan, minus the interest of its volunteers, kept right on defending Michigan. Today the OCD is no more. The Germans have been beaten these many months, and our occupation troops are in Japan. No longer do we need to fear an attack on Michigan.

For the past couple years the OCD has grown busier than ever—in Lansing. The Jap balloon-bomb menace put life into an organization dying of inertia, while tips on what to plant in your garden, and how to store rutabagas became vitally important in the OCD's campaign against the Japs.

The OCD reports the victory garden program will end this fall, the salvage drive will fold up within a month, but the future of the fuel conservation program is undetermined. Not undetermined is disposition of the gas masks handed out to air raid wardens. The OCD says they can keep these as souvenirs.

Japan Surrenders

TODAY is the blackest day in Japanese history. Their position as a second rate power for generations to come has been sealed by their formal surrender to Gen. MacArthur and representatives of the Allied Nations.

It is important that the vigilance be maintained for years to come so that the victory that our gallant forces have won at so tremendous a cost will not have been in vain.

General MacArthur accurately portrayed the sentiment of the American people when he rejected the Japanese request for further conferences on the terms of the surrender and subsequent delays. From this day on, the Japanese will take orders from their conquerors, a condition that must exist until such time as Japan has proved beyond a shadow of doubt that her people can live in harmony and peace with a civilized world.

Selling America

BY EXECUTIVE order President Truman has directed Secretary of State Byrnes to establish a propaganda program to sell America to the people of foreign countries.

That is the purpose of the propaganda, although it may be more diplomatically described by the president as giving the peoples of other nations "a full and fair picture of American life and of the aims and policies of the United States government." The intention is also to assist private enterprise in spreading information abroad and to supplement them where necessary.

Such a propaganda program has within itself the seeds of great good for America and for the world. It has also the seeds of distrust, suspicion and a detrimental effect on our world relationships.

Whether the first will be accomplished will depend entirely on how wisely, fairly and impartially information about America and Americans is disseminated to the people of other nations. Unless this is done the second effect will be inevitable.

Uncle Sam is in an enviable position to provide information about America. Here there is complete freedom of the press, with all the attendant pro and con discussion that go to make up the basis for democratic judgment. If the people of other countries are to understand us, they must understand this fundamental concept of democracy.

Any propaganda designed for foreign consumption would create suspicion if the full information were withheld. The man in Belgium, or England, for example, reading a carefully prepared propaganda piece and then picking up an American newspaper and reading a dissenting editorial opinion, would have cause for distrust.

Perhaps the best way would be to print copies of the more thoughtful American papers in the language of the other country, and then distribute them. The other mediums of American information could be similarly disseminated. The moving picture industry is already providing "translations" of American films for the foreign trade.

There also is inherent danger in the funneling of information through the government for foreign consumption. It must be carefully scrutinized so that it will not enbroil us in the political, social or religious controversies in other countries. The pathway will be difficult and beset by hazards of far-reaching importance.

A most constructive suggestion would be to encourage the flow of visitors to America from other countries. First-hand acquaintance and observation can create better understanding than a million leaflets.

MORE SUMMER HOMES (Sault Ste. Marie News)

The removing of gas rationing is a welcome relief to thousands of car owners. It is helping the end of the tourist season in this area.

Next season should be a good one, provided there are enough tires to go around. The condition of the rubber on many cars visiting the district this season is deplorable. It indicates the long pent up desire on the part of many people to take a vacation anyway, after years of sticking to the job.

There is money in the pockets of a lot of people, despite the long lines of unemployed in front of Michigan unemployment offices, as pictured in the Detroit papers. It is said that many people are moving back to the mining regions of the Northern Peninsula, especially to the Copper Country, where they are badly needed. The resident population of the peninsula should show a consistent growth for some time.

This region needs more summer homes owned by downstate people and those living in other States. Lower Michigan derives a very large part of its visitor revenues from such sources, far more proportionately than we do. We want more families who will come up 100 percent at the closing of schools and stay till Labor Day or after.

We need more patronage, too, by those who seek to escape the ravages of hay fever. This lake-surrounded peninsula is easily the finest hay fever haven in inland America, and we haven't begun to live up to even a small part of the possibilities. Here is the cool and pollen-free summer climate that millions would like to enjoy, if they only knew what comfort it can bring them. They must be told, and well told over and over, if we are to reap the benefits to which these assets of air and sun, of woods and waters, entitle us.

The job of lengthening the north country summer season has no more than begun. It must start earlier and end later, to be really profitable to all concerned.

Sugar rationing hasn't stopped peace from making these days mighty sweet ones.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The crimes of the Nazis were so revolting and on such a scale that they left a sense of shock and horrors. We found it hard to believe that human beings could commit such acts.

But the human memory is short-lived. The horrors of Maidanek and Dachau are like an evil nightmare which we want to put out of mind. One reason may be because our own consciences are troubled. On the face of such mass crimes, there is a kind of collective responsibility. All mankind stands at the bar of justice.

The death factories and the horror camps have been destroyed. The surviving victims are being built back to health. That was fairly easy.

It is proving less easy to combat the vicious poisons that generated these horrors. From all reports, anti-Semitism is a political reality throughout Europe. Although the Nazis liquidated four million or five million Jews—no one knows the exact number—the survivors are finding their lot extremely difficult.

—NAZIS WERE CLEVER—

Partly, this grows out of the seeds of the propaganda that the Nazis sowed all over the world. If the atomic bomb leaves behind deadly radio activity, as some scientists say it does, the propaganda of hate and fear, likewise, leaves behind deadly infections in men's minds. Partly, the reason for Europe's current anti-Semitism is the old, familiar one—economic insecurity.

The Germans were diabolically clever. Their own gauleiters and torturers took the juicy prizes wrested from the Jews in occupied countries, such as the ownership of department stores and others properties. To natives of the occupied countries, however, they gave the small rewards: The little jobs, the small privileges and perquisites.

This last adds up to a sizeable total when you consider that seven to eight million European Jews were pushed out of the economic order entirely. Five years have passed since that happened.

To try to make present job-holders, be they Czechs, French, Belgians, or whatever, step out in favor of the Jews who held those positions is all but impossible. Even new liberal governments with the best will in the world are coming up against that blank wall.

What about migrating out of Europe, then? Isn't that a solution for Europe's million and a half surviving Jews? Here's another blank wall.

—MUST SOLVE PROBLEM—

Immigration and quota systems operate in every country in the world to keep out all but a trickle of Europe's unwanted. That was true before the war. It is even more true today. In 1938, at a refugee conference in Evian, France, representatives of the major powers met to try to find some haven for men and women persecuted for race, religion or political beliefs. In the course of that conference, the representative from Australia, a country nearly as large as the United States, with a population of 7,000,000, said this: "Gentlemen, we in Australia have no racial problem, thank God, and we do not intend to have one started."

That remark sums up the futility of the Evian conference. Nothing was done. Millions marched into the death factories.

The Zionists say that the only door left open is a Jewish state in Palestine. About a half million Jews have gone there to form what is a flourishing community. They make what seems to me a very strong case, given the state of world opinion today.

At this point, however, you come up against a controversy boiling just beneath the surface of world news. The Arabs in the Middle East want to keep out any more Jews. Their leaders say they will fight to keep them out.

The British apparently take this threat seriously. They just sent the Regent of Iraq home on a battleship as he loudly denounced the plan for any influx of Jews into Palestine.

Palestine may not be the final answer. But the world must find an answer. Anti-Semitism, as we have learned to our immense sorrow, is a poison that destroys both the poisoner and the poisoned.

means "blue."

Little Rock: Why call a drinking glass a "tumbler"?—Mrs. J. A. R.

Answer: Long ago, when manhood was measured in proportion to one's drinking capacity, wine glasses had rounded or pointed bottoms so that they could not be put down until empty. At drinking parties, the glasses were constantly refilled and each man had to drink his share, for, if he tried to set his glass down, it would tumble and spill the contents.

Houston: What is the pronunciation of "fiord," an inlet along the coast?—R. B. S.

Answer: The word is also spelled "fiord." The "j" (or "i") has the sound of the consonant "y" as in York. Say: fyawrd.

Decherd: In school I was taught that the vowels are "a, e, i, o, u, and sometimes y and w," but I cannot think of a word in which "w" is a vowel. Will you please explain?—J. B.

Answer: "W" is a vowel only in words in which a vowel plus "w" forms a diphthong, as in "new, pew, how, now," etc. "Y" is a vowel in such words as "myth, rhythm, my, by," etc.

Typewriter of the week, spotted by Mrs. A. H., of San Diego: "When the new insecticide is marketed for civilian use, you'll never again be exasperated by such pests as ants swarming all over the kitchen and getting in the sugar bowl."

The great task of conserving and replenishing the forests of the world and reclaiming deserts and waste places by tree planting needs the concerted action of every country.—Capt. Richard Baker, founder of the Men of the Trees.

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

RAINY DAY—It has been raining since early morning, bringing to persons sensitive to such things a reflective train of thought on what has been and what will be.

Rain is a positive and beneficial thing, yet it leaves most of us pensive and abstract. It is a break in days of activity, a pause when thought replaces the purely physical motions of living.

Out in the county the rain has halted the late summer haying, and farmers turn to other tasks inside the barn or house. Children from Escanaba, members of the Victory Volunteer Corps, who have been picking beans to take up some of the slack in the farm labor shortage, stay at home today. They also will play inside, fretting somewhat because so few days remain before they return to school.

In office, the tempo of activity slows during a day of rain, although there is the same amount of work to be done. In the shops the clerks rearrange the goods on the shelves while waiting for the infrequent customer.

REFLECTION—Rain can be a lovely flashing thing in a summer shower, or slow and heavy when compressed by lowering clouds. This is a heavy rain.

Strangely enough, when you stop to think of it, the rain falls not only on the garden soil or the city street, but on the already wet darkness of the cedar swamp and the softly receiving waters of the bay.

Rain is something we know as water in a roadside ditch, or a pattern scurrying across the surface of the bay, and a rippled swirl in the gutter. It is a weed-bending freshet in a country stream, rising to engulf tracks made by cows, who yesterday stood there to drink. It is a slow gathering of moisture on green forest leaves, accumulating to drip and darken the supporting branches.

Under the impact of countless drops the dust is washed from roadside grass and shrubs — and the gritty soot from city roofs is caught up and carried plummeting down the drain spouts.

In the woody path the rain makes little pools on which float bits of bark and twigs. In town the rain gathers in the depressions of the sidewalk, erasing the hop-scotch marks the children made, and disintegrating the ugly butt of a cigarette.

TRANSITION—There is in a day like this a feeling of transition. Summer's high-flying clouds and careless winds give way to moody weather presaging seasonal change.

The dark sky and wind-bent trees, like the gathering flocks of restless birds, tell that summer is passing and that autumn is around the corner of the calendar.

BURNING RAIN—A drop of water seems a little thing when it strikes against the window, or falls pellet-like on the pavement. Yet these drops of water, combining in the water courses of our country, are a flood of power that helps turn the wheels of industry.

Here in this locality we see, hear and feel the power of rain as it comes to us in the form of electricity. Through the wonder of engineering science the rushing force of the accumulated raindrops surging down the Escanaba river turn the turbines that turn the electric generators. From these generators flows the converted power of water, lighting our streets and our homes, livens a dead radio to bring us voices out of the ether, and giving us heat on which to cook our food. Waterpower is the cheapest "fuel" known to man.

OF MANY MOODS—Rain has a way of washing out the litter of little thoughts, as its sweeps debris from city streets.

It has its moods—but always it is insistent, demanding attention regardless of the time or place. The summer shower can no more be ignored than the noisy tantrum of a child, who makes a fuss for little cause. The lightning and thunder are an accompaniment to rain, special effects as it were for a drama sometimes underplayed.

Often rain can be a carelessly happy thing, combining playful gusts of wind and scattering drops, enlivening a dull day of summer heat. Again it can be spectacular in its beauty, reaching a climax in a rainbow spectrum borrowed from the sun.

At this season of the year it can become solemn in its dull implication of colder weather on the way, and as uneventful as the work of laborer in a ditch. It rains, and that is all that might be said of it — unless you felt the power behind the rain, the tough and unassuming determination that is its mood. It will probably rain all day.

Good Morning!

RAINY DAY—It has been raining since early morning, bringing to persons sensitive to such things a reflective train of thought on what has been and what will be.

Rain is a positive and beneficial thing, yet it leaves most of us pensive and abstract. It is a break in days of activity, a pause when thought replaces the purely physical motions of living.

Out in the county the rain has halted the late summer haying, and farmers turn to other tasks inside the barn or house. Children from Escanaba, members of the Victory Volunteer Corps, who have been picking beans to take up some of the slack in the farm labor shortage, stay at home today. They also will play inside, fretting somewhat because so few days remain before they return to school.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

(NOTE—Before leaving on his vacation, Drew Pearson wrote to several congressmen he had criticized, and offered them the courtesy of using his column to even up the score. He gave them the privilege of saying anything they pleased about him or on any other subject, provided it was about 1,000 words in length. Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan, accepting this invitation, has contributed the following guest column.)

BY CLARE E. HOFFMAN

Republican Representative from Michigan

Allegan, Mich.—An editorial in the Saturday Evening Post of August 11 justly complains of the "reckless irresponsibility" of certain radio commentators; then refers to one it charges with having made a misstatement with reference to the Post.

Hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of patriotic Americans, who have no knowledge of the merits of the Post's controversy with the named radio commentator, who, in the opinion of many of us, expresses sound American views and is usually accurate in his news broadcasts, agree that radio commentators and columnists have exercised an influence (which they are rapidly losing) out of all proportion to the degree of authority they possess, the responsibility they should assume.

A few columnists, several broadcasters who also write columns—and Mr. Pearson happens to be one of them—deceive the people, not only by pretending to give as advance, exclusive information news which has already appeared, or shortly will appear, in dispatches of the AP, UP, INS or some local publication, but also by deliberately or ignorantly mistating the facts—and are at times downright vicious in their unfair comment on the actions of public officials.

—DEPROVED COLUMNISTS—

Some people realize that this conduct may on occasion be due to personal animosity, a depraved nature, but more often the result of an overpowering greed; an unscrupulous desire and search for the almighty dollar, as well as for the publicity which may be turned into money.

Although assuming it, neither columnists nor news commentators have any authority from the people to speak as their representatives. Yet some, without any experience or background justifying their conduct, with an air of "I'm telling you," from day to day lay down a course of conduct for the people's chosen representatives, or unfairly and without suggesting a sound, feasible alternative, criticize their acts.

Seldom, if ever, do some of these self-anointed prophets and judges have a word of approval for any public servant, except as he happens to be someone who can serve their selfish interests.

—GULLIBLE PUBLIC—

A few—a very, very few—of Mr. Pearson's avocation, like the sellers of spurious merchandise, live upon the gullibility of those who are so simple-minded or so honest that they still believe. Without applying the test of common sense and good judgment, the word which comes over the radio or through the newspaper. Many do not distinguish between the accuracy of the reporter and the unreliability of some broadcasters and columnists.

Mr. Pearson and others in his position have a marvelous opportunity to render to the people and the nation a worth-while service. Many are doing it. Others, like Mr. Pearson, have established a reputation for inaccuracy, for vilification and for sensationalism.

In my judgment, while they may succeed for a time—as do others who thrive by catering to those who have a taste for the bizarre, for indecency, scandal and plain dirt—in the end, the sound-thinking, patriotic citizens and sponsors will—unless Mr. Pearson and his ilk repent and reform—throw aside, disregard your offerings, because of their worthlessness and their trend to aid in the destruction of all that believers in honesty, decency, truthfulness and patriotism hold dear.

—COLUMNISTS "STINK"—

Already, in some communities, in some congressional districts, the effluvia (colloquially known as a stink) which accompanies so many of Mr. Pearson's emanations renders them less harmful than in the past.

Many columnists and radio commentators have a far greater audience, a wider opportunity, than senators or congressmen, the people's chosen representatives. They have it within their power to mold the thought and the action of millions of Americans.

They and their sponsors, until the public becomes fully aware of their motives and their methods, of their purpose and their program, may be able to influence legislation which will vitally affect our national life, the permanency of the Republic.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Moskun, wore a gown of blue net over satin, with pink veil, and wore a corsage of pink gladioli. Arthur DeGrand, brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride's mother, Mrs. DeGrand, wore a dress of black and white print, with a corsage of pink and white gladioli. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast and dinner were served at the home of the bride. Pfc. and Mrs. Cline left for Milwaukee and Chicago for their honeymoon. Take Your Outing?
School days are just a couple of sleeps away for your youngsters, and we are wondering if you have made good your promise to take them on an outing this summer? It doesn't need to be a fancy affair, entailing a lot of fuss and feathers—you will be surprised what a thrill that kid will get with his Dad—even with two cane poles and a can of angle worms.

We almost missed the boat with our kids this summer. They seemed content with the radio thrillers, a "digging pit" in the back yard, some scrap boards with which to build "shacks" and frequent trips to the bathing beach—but those few trips a little way out of town paid dividends in a big way.

Fishing was lousy, but they didn't seem to mind. Gathering bait was a hilarious experience with much splashing in the shallows until a hapless little green frog, a half dozen crayfish and one lone minnow were secured. A few grasshoppers completed the preparations, but there was little settling down to fishing.

Too many interesting things were happening along the river bank. There was the fuss the blackbirds in the cattails kept up and the excitement when a little garter snake was found sunning itself by a rock on the trail.

Even eating outdoors was a thrill, and how the little fellows toiled as they gathered three times as much wood as needed. When, as darkness fell, a bat was discovered flitting about the clearing, a whippoorwill called three times and the bull frogs bellowed back in the swamp—how those kids reacted to the sound effects of Nature at night—listening in rapt attention. The smell of the woods after the shower, and the skunk that made its unhurried retreat as we approached the opening by the car were not taken lightly, nor will they be forgotten.

It was time to go home, they were tired, happy pair of youngsters, and we felt like a heel for having delayed this little excursion so long. Probably the greatest lesson learned was not of woodcraft or fishing by the children. Instead, it was the discovery that we, the parents, made.

Our kids were closer to us. We seemed to understand them better. Something outdoors brought us together on a common ground that we never were able to meet on in town. We decided then and there to do this often, and that whoever said "The Groves Were God's First Temples" knew what he was talking about.

Automatons Out

Wednesday's announcement of new laws taking effect on Sept. 6, which listed one "Prohibit the use of automatic guns while hunting" caused quite a flurry among some sportsmen owning automatic rifles and shotguns. Don't sell those guns cheap!

Automatic, semi-automatic or auto-loading guns larger than .22 caliber may be used only if capacities of magazines and chambers combined are reduced to six shells or cartridges.

Plugs must be fitted in a manner that will prevent removal from loading ends.

Michigan's new firearms law, effective September 6, does not affect slide, bolt, or lever action firearms, even though capable of holding more than six shots. It was apparently aimed at preventing the use of military type automatic arms to spray the woods with lead.

Expanding bullets are not banned, but tracer or exploding bullets are.

McKindles-Schultz

The following is taken from the L'Anse Sentinel and of interest to many people. Miss Lucille McKindles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McKindles, became the bride of Earl Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schultz, at a nuptial high mass in Sacred Heart church at nine Tuesday morning, August 21. The Rev. Fr. Francis Scherger performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose Mrs. John Drew, her cousin, as matron of honor, Miss Grace Schultz and Miss Mary Alice McKindles as bridesmaids.

The best man was S/Sgt. Rudolph Schultz, uncle of the groom and S/Sgt. Earl Damask and Cpl. Raymond Londo, USMC, acted as ushers. All men were in uniform.

The bride wore a white gown with fitted satin bodice. It had a net yoke with a high neckline and a double net skirt. Her floor-length veil was bound with rose point lace and held in place with a tiara of crystal beads. Her only jewelry was string of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a white prayer book with white streamers and white gladioli.

Mrs. Drew wore a white floor length net formal and a pink headress. She carried nosegays of summer flowers.

The bridesmaids wore white marquisette formal and white headresses. They carried nosegays of summer flowers.

The three flower girls, Miss Virginia Schultz, Miss Mary Anne Deschaine and Miss Nancy Sue Spesser, wore blue net dresses and carried nosegays of summer flowers. They wore blue organdy puffs in their hair.

Mrs. Euclid LeDue presided at the organ, playing the processionals and recessional marches. Miss Phyllis Francois sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" at the offertory.

The bride's mother wore a gray printed cotton mesh dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses. The groom's mother wore a soldier blue dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Ermart Cafe. The table centerpiece was a three-tiered cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

In the afternoon a reception was held at the bride's home from 2 to 4, after which the bride and bridegroom left on their honeymoon.

Off The Chest ...
BY JAY ARRELL

Little Stasia, who was guest at our house not so long ago, was one day entertaining a little girl of the neighborhood. They were coloring pictures in a paint book and, at the same time, swapping bits of information gleaned from what they had seen, read or been told. Like most humans, each tried to go the other one better and we, in another room, were entertained perhaps more than the children themselves.

Little Edna culminated with a lurid description of an "awful auto wreck" she had once seen when she and her parents were motoring to Escanaba and Little Stasia, not to be outdone, told of a happening "just a couple of blocks from where I live" where a two timing husband disposed of his unwanted mate in a most fiendish manner. It was a twentieth century crime story with a Sicilian background, involving such fleshsteeping items as a bloody dagger and a malodorous trunk and Stasia wasn't half bad as a raconteur. Little Edna shuddered and covered her eyes. "Ohhhhhh! Tell me some more!" she begged.

In our room the wife cast reproving glances in our direction, and we freely confess that our face was a bit red; for the story wasn't original. Ever so often, we purchase for our own entertainment one of those lurid covered magazines commonly known as "true detective" and Little Stasia must have found one of them.

For our own part we get a "kick" out of reading periodicals of this sort, but we are not exactly proud of the fact. We mention it merely to explain why we knew where she got her subject matter for her sensational recital. And we are frank to say that we felt ashamed of ourselves for leaving such unsavory reading within reach of a little girl just beginning to figure out things for herself.

That evening, with a view of providing reading entertainment of a better sort for a child, we resurrected from our meager store of children's books, a volume entitled "Folklore Every Child Should Know." The title page gave assurance that the matter contained was from the world's best literature, carefully selected from the classics, the folklore and mythology of all countries. This should be good stuff for Little Stasia to read, we told ourselves.

Opening the book at random, we came upon a Russian tale and suddenly found ourselves deeply absorbed in an eerie narrative about a two timing husband who did away with his wife. Instead of resorting to simple methods of murder, however, he used finesse that was possible only in fairy tales. He had a wicked old witch change the faithful and trusting wife into a cow and then sold the cow to the butcher. This was followed by a very sad account of the hardships endured by the butchered lady's daughter. Justice, of course triumphed in the end. The witch was burned to the stake, the wicked husband was hanged, and the daughter married a prince.

No doubt Little Stasia had read that story or one like it years ago and wouldn't be impressed at all. And no doubt she had seen love triangles in the movies that were every bit as sensational as those relayed in the average crime magazine. So, on second thought, we guess we were probably unduly disturbed.

TO BUILD SPUD WAREHOUSE

Ground Is Broken For Huge Structure On Deer Street

Ground is being broken this week at the left of the Walter Lindroth farm implement building on Deer street and construction is expected to start early next week on a modern potato storage warehouse.

The building will be 40x90 feet in size and will have storage space for thousands of bushels of spuds. It will be of double cement block construction with a four-inch space between the inner and outer walls, the space to be filled with in block wool. The roof, of hip podrome type, will be lined with a double thickness of insulation material and a heating plant, specially designed to keep the interior at a proper degree of temperature will be installed.

Mr. Lindroth states that he hopes to have a spur of the Ann Arbor railway built to the rear of the warehouse to facilitate the shipment of potatoes—which in certain seasons promise to be in big orders.

The local potato crop, says Mr. Lindroth, will in all probability be the biggest on record for these parts. The season has been favorable and every indication points to splendid yields. In addition to this he adds that Upper Michigan potatoes cannot be beat for shipping purposes. An Illinois firm, a short time ago, placed an order for 30 carloads of potatoes of a certain kind and grade. Not certain that the order could be filled according to specifications on the date demanded, Mr. Lindroth compromised and took the order for ten carloads.

Potatoes for this purpose, he says, require storage for a certain time in bins that are at a certain temperature at all times. That is why he is rushing his warehouse to completion.

Later he plans to put a frontage on the warehouse and his present implement warehouse which will be 30x90 feet. This will provide show rooms, office space and stock room facilities.

LENSES AND GLASS

It has been found that lenses and glass produced by the American optical industry today by mass production, and often by high school girls working part time, are equal to or superior to the best hand-made items produced by German craftsmen. This fact aided materially in the defeat of Germany, and will aid in defeating Japan.

Trains Back In Service Monday; Handle No Mail

Soo Line passenger trains Nos. 86 and 87, taken out of service in compliance with an Office of Defense Transportation order, will be placed back into service tomorrow.

The trains were discontinued on March 1, 1945 when the ODT ordered cancellation of all trains operating at less than 35 per cent capacity.

There will be no mail service on 86 and 87, it was learned yesterday.

Plans were laid for resumption of mail service on the two trains, but yesterday postal authorities were notified by the chief postal clerk who is headquartered at Duluth that 86 and 87 would not handle mail.

No explanation was offered and A. C. Peterson, division superintendent, said that the main office of the Soo Line at Minneapolis could offer no reason for the sudden cancellation of arrangements.

Tigers Nip Cleveland Winning Streak, 5-4; Cards Take Cubs, 3-2

BINGLE IN 9TH NOSES INDIANS

Feller Knocked Out In Seventh; Newhouse Also Yanked

BY FRANK KENESSON

Detroit, Sept. 1 (AP)—Neither starting pitcher, Detroit's Newhouse nor Cleveland's Bob Feller, was around at the finish today as the Tigers punched across a ninth inning run to edge the fifth place Indians 5 to 4 and preserve their game and a half American League lead.

Rudy York's clean smash into center field with the bases loaded and one out in the last frame drove in Ed Borom, who had beaten out a bunt for his fifth straight hit of the game. York's hit pinned the defeat on Ed (Specs) Klemm, who pitched the last two innings after the Tigers knocked out Feller in the seventh in tying the score with a two-run rally. Newhouse also departed in the seventh after yielding seven hits. Detroit got nine off Feller and four more off Klemm. Joe Tobin, third Detroit hurler, was the winner.

Walk Forces Run
Dutch Meyer's single off Newhouse in the third drove in two runs and put the Indians on top, 3-2. Roy Cullenbine's single filled the bases for the second time in the game York walked, forcing in the tying run.

Borom's perfect bunt led off the Tiger ninth and Hank Greenberg sent him to third with a single to center. Cullenbine was passed intentionally, setting the stage for York's game-wrecking single.

The Detroit victory, second for the Tigers in their last seven games, cracked a five-game Cleveland winning streak.

Strangely enough, both Newhouse and Feller worked 6 1-3 innings. Each fanned three men while Newhouse walked four and Feller three, but the Cleveland fireballer gave Cullenbine a free ride by hitting him with a pitched ball.

Feller, after walking York with the sacks jammed in the opening frame, handing Detroit a one-run lead, fanned Bob Maier for the third out to escape further damage.

After clustering their three runs in the third, the Indians had men on first and second with only one out but Skeeter Webb turned Ross' bouncer into a double play, one of three the Tigers made during the afternoon.

Clean-up Spot: Attendance of 25,742 put the Tigers within reach of their all-time season record of 1,112,693, a mark they will pass either Sunday or in their Labor Day twin bill with Chicago. . . . Mickey Rocco's double with one out in the seventh was the blow that chased Newhouse. . . . George Caster left Rocco stranded there by getting the next two batters on fly balls. . . . York dropped Joe Hoover's throw after Al Chiochi's grounder in the Cleveland ninth, but the Indian second sacker made an illegal turn at first and was tagged out by York going back to the bag. . . . With Steve Gromek still complaining of a bad leg from his collision with Bob Swift at Cleveland a week ago, Manager Lou Boudreau, of the Indians, named Jim Bagby to oppose Detroit's Les Mueller in Sunday's single game.

Football Rules Meeting Will Be Held On Tuesday
A football rules meeting for coaches and officials will be conducted at the Escanaba junior high school Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. George Ruwicz, Escanaba high school coach, will conduct the meeting.

The meeting is one of five being held in the upper peninsula.

Gar Wood Assaults Speedboat Record
Winterhaven, Fla., Sept. 1 (AP)—Gar Wood, speedboat veteran, will attempt to hang up a new record with his hydroplane during the Labor Day regatta here Monday.

Wood will put his 91-foot hydroplane, only postwar boat in the regatta, through test runs tomorrow morning.

The ancient Romans made a poultice of onions and barley meal as a cure for watery eyes. They thought that onions cleared the sight by the tears they drew.

Mosquitoes could be worse. Only adults bite, and then only certain species, and of these species it's only the females.

Texas Hurricane Is Described By Elaine Beaudoin

SIMB 3/C Elaine Beaudoin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Med. Beaudoin, 306 South Ninth street, recently wrote her parents of the hurricane that swept across the coast of the Gulf of Mexico and which she witnessed from her base in Corpus Christi, Texas.

"By now you have probably all heard of the exciting hurricane we have had down here. Yesterday they announced we were in Condition One, and at 11 o'clock all the Waves were ordered to report to the barracks and to stay there until further notice. At 12 o'clock we all went to bed and at 2 it really began to rain. All evening we knitted, read, and played cards and went to bed at midnight. At 10 the next morning, when we awoke, it was still raining and when we went to chow we literally blew there. When we got back our bunk room was flooded so we swabbed the deck but to no avail. Finally they told us to let it go and within an hour we were wading in water up to our ankles. All afternoon we sat and danced in the water. One of the fellows' barracks started to sway so they evacuated all the boys.

"It's now 12:30. . . About 10 of our bunks started floating and so we all had to move to the other side of the barracks. We can't leave. About 11 they announced the hurricane was due to hit in about an hour so we all had to dress and sit on the floor in case the roof blew off. It is the worst storm in 25 years and a gale of 100 miles was at the main base.

"Here it is morning. Every bone in my body aches. No one slept. About 3 this morning all the lights blew off and rain came through all the windows as we all lay on the floor. But we couldn't move so we just tried to sleep in the water. At 7:30 the rain stopped but the wind is still going strong. They say the worst of the storm didn't hit us—but if it didn't I'd sure hate to see one."

"The body is lying in state at the Bjork funeral home in Ishpeming and services will be this afternoon at 2:30. Mr. and Mrs. Loveland and daughter, Anna Mae, have left to attend the funeral.

Mother Of Local Resident Claimed

Mrs. Anna Aas, 79, wife of the late O. G. Aas, prominent in Upper Peninsula banking circles for many years, died Friday evening at her home in Ishpeming. She is the mother of Mrs. B. B. Loveland, 515 Second avenue south, and is well known locally, having made her home with the Lovelands for several years.

The body is lying in state at the Bjork funeral home in Ishpeming.

Scout Executive Officers Plan for Council Activities

The August meeting of the executive staff of the Hiawathaland Council, Boy Scouts of America, was held in Marquette August 30 and 31, with all members present; R. L. Thompson, scout executive of Marquette, and Field Executive Harry Siemers of the Pere Marquette district, Winston Schallert of the Iron Range district, Charles Eaton of the Chippewa district, Harold Bakkerus of the Copper Country, and S. N. Bradford of Red Buck.

The general theme of the staff meeting was the presentation of plans of each district executive toward Scouting in each district, with discussions on council wide activities for the coming months.

Some of the highlighted activities to be held district wide included the proposing of a Scout circus in each district, during the month of December, with definite plans to be formulated and date set according to dictates of each district; the celebration of Boy Scout week was mentioned. First aid contests this year are planned to be held during the months of March and April only, with the council contest made council wide. The annual camp-o-ree will be held in June prior to the opening of the summer camps.

The Order of the Arrow ceremonies which were scheduled to be held in the various districts, were consolidated into a council wide ceremony, with plans being made to hold it during the middle of October at one of the council camps. It will constitute a week end event. Heretofore, it had been planned that Red Buck would hold its ceremony in September, but do to conflicting dates arising, it was found necessary to make the change.

The provisions of a long term camping program were discussed from the basis of camp needs and improvements throughout the council camps.

Last Call For Fishing Contest, End Is Monday

The answer to the question "Who caught the biggest fish from the waters of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan this summer?" will be given in a short time now for the end of the Ninth Annual Daily Press Fishing Contest is in sight. The contest comes to a close on Labor Day.

All entries to be considered must be postmarked not later than September 3. Today and Labor Day are the last chances for the fisherman who has been holding off. It is now or not at all. Any fish legally caught in Upper Michigan waters this summer can be entered. There are no entry fees and no obligation of any kind. The only information needed is that on the contest blank. The contest purpose is to discover the biggest fish in each class caught during the summer in Upper Peninsula waters, to stimulate interest in Outdoor Hiawathaland and to encourage good sportsmanship.

Judging of the contest will take place as soon after Labor Day as sufficient time has elapsed for all entries postmarked September 3 to reach the contest editor.

Recent entries include a six and 3/4 pound walleyed pike caught Thursday in Thunder Lake by William Schenckers of 8214 Almont avenue, Detroit; a 15 pound northern pike caught by Richard Moreau of 607 Ninth street, Gladstone from Little Bay de Noc; a 19 1/2 pound northern pike caught by Jesse Goulet of 1414 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, in the Ford River and five and 3/4 pound large mouth black bass caught by 12-year-old Mary Goulet, Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba at Ford River.
